Manuscript information

[Manuscript title]

Article type: [Research article / Review article / Case study / Short communication]

Authors: [Full names in agreed order]

Affiliations: [Department, institution and country for each author]

Corresponding author: [Name and email]

ORCID: [Verified identifier for each author, where available]

Abstract

[Summarize the research purpose, approach, principal findings and contribution. Use an appropriate summary for reviews or conceptual work. Do not overstate conclusions.]

Keywords: [Specific terms reflecting the study]

Introduction

[Explain the problem, context, knowledge gap, objectives and contribution. Define essential terms and cite relevant sources.]

Literature review where appropriate

[Critically synthesize prior work and explain how this study relates to it. Combine this with the introduction if appropriate.]

Methodology or analytical approach

[Describe design, data or literature sources, selection criteria, methods, analytical procedures and applicable approvals. For reviews, explain search and synthesis; for conceptual work, explain the argument and framework.]

Results or findings

[Report the evidence clearly. Place numbered tables and figures near their first discussion; supply captions, units and source acknowledgements.]

Discussion

[Interpret findings, compare them with prior work, evaluate alternative explanations, discuss limitations and explain implications.]

Conclusion

[State the contribution supported by the evidence and appropriate directions for future work.]

Acknowledgements

[Credit assistance that does not meet authorship criteria, with permission where appropriate.]

Conflicts of interest

[Disclose relevant competing interests, or accurately state that there are none.]

Funding

[Identify funders, genuine grant details and funder roles, or state that no funding supported the work.]

Author contributions

[Describe each author's contribution where applicable. All authors must approve submission and accept accountability.]

Ethics and data availability

[Report applicable approval and consent details. Explain data or code access, or justified restrictions. Do not invent approvals or identifiers.]

References

[Insert verified references using the recommended IJMES author-date house style. Match every in-text citation to a reference. Do not include these prompts or fictional examples in the submitted manuscript.]
